

The Importance of Setting a Sleep Schedule

Children look to their parents for guidance on healthy habits. Sleep should be no exception. For both adults and children, a regular sleep schedule helps the body know when it's time to sleep and wake up. A sleep schedule helps prevent fatigue, exhaustion, and daytime drowsiness.

Children and adolescents whose parents set a bedtime schedule are more likely to get sufficient sleep². These students likely have earlier bedtimes than their peers without parent-set bedtimes³. Students with parent-set bedtimes also experience less fatigue during the day and less difficulty staying awake during the day.

How Much Sleep Does Your Child Need?

The amount of sleep needed varies depending on your child's age, activity levels, and individual needs. The National Sleep Foundation suggests the following guidelines⁴:

- Preschoolers (ages 3-5) require 10-13 hours of sleep
- School-age children (ages 6-13) require 9-11 hours of sleep
- Teenagers (ages 14-17) require 8-10 hours of sleep

A Centers for Disease Control (CDC) study found that most American children and teenagers don't sleep enough⁵. Nearly 6 in 10 middle schoolers and at least 7 in 10 high schoolers don't sleep enough on school nights. Of the high school students surveyed, almost two-thirds sleep less than eight hours nightly.

Adhering to sleep schedules with parental support can help students achieve the sleep needed to help them perform their best.

REASONS AND MOTIVATIONS FOR HOME EDUCATING

Most parents and youth decide to homeschool for more than one reason. The most common reasons given for homeschooling are the following:

- customize or individualize the curriculum and learning environment for each child,
- accomplish more academically than in schools,
- use pedagogical approaches other than those typical in institutional schools,
- enhance family relationships between children and parents and among siblings,
- provide guided and reasoned social interactions with youthful peers and adults,
- provide a safer environment for children and youth, because of physical violence, drugs and alcohol, psychological abuse, racism, and improper and unhealthy sexuality associated with institutional schools, and
- as an alternative education approach when public or private institutional schools are closed due to acute health situations such as related to disease (e.g., Covid-19, Coronavirus)

SOCIAL, EMOTIONAL, AND PSYCHOLOGICAL DEVELOPMENT (SOCIALIZATION)

- Research facts on homeschooling show that the home-educated are doing well, typically above average, on measures of social, emotional, and psychological development. Research measures include peer interaction, self-concept, leadership skills, family cohesion, participation in community service, and self-esteem.
- 87% of peer-reviewed studies on social, emotional, and psychological development show homeschool students perform statistically significantly better than those in conventional schools (Ray, 2017).
- Homeschool students are regularly engaged in social and educational activities outside their homes and with people other than their nuclear-family members. They are commonly involved in activities such as field trips, scouting, 4-H, political drives, church ministry, sports teams, and community volunteer work.
- Adults who were home educated are more politically tolerant than the public schooled in the limited research done so far.
